STRATEGIC ADVISOR TO LAW FIRMS & MODERN M&A THINKER

NEXT-GENERATION STRATEGY, GROUNDED IN PEOPLE AND CULTURE

As Associate, Strategy & Growth at Oxford Strategic Legal Advisors, Evan Meyers represents a new generation of high-impact strategic advisors in the legal industry. His work sits at the intersection of human capital strategy, law-firm combinations, and growth execution—where culture, leadership alignment, and generational dynamics often determine success or failure. Evan brings a rare combination of analytical rigor, relationship-building, and intuitive market awareness to every engagement.

HUMAN CAPITAL-DRIVEN GROWTH PERSPECTIVE

Evan is a graduate of the Farmer School of Business, where he specialized in Human Capital Management and Leadership—a discipline focused on how people, organizational design, and culture drive long-term performance. His foundation includes optimizing teams, structuring organizations for efficiency and scalability, understanding workforce motivation across generations, and designing leadership frameworks that translate strategy into measurable outcomes. This perspective allows Evan to assess combinations not just on economics, but on integration risk and long-term sustainability.

BRIDGING GENERATIONS IN LAW-FIRM COMBINATIONS

Evan brings a perspective shaped by the next generation of legal talent, while operating with the maturity, presence, and judgment expected at the executive level. He serves as a critical bridge between senior leadership and emerging attorneys, helping firms understand how younger partners and associates evaluate culture, leadership credibility, and long-term opportunity—and how those expectations influence retention, mobility, and growth. In an environment where generational misalignment is one of the greatest threats to successful law-firm combinations, Evan provides clarity that enables alignment across leadership levels.

ENTREPRENEURIAL EXECUTION WITH STRATEGIC DISCIPLINE

Before joining Oxford, Evan built and scaled human capital-focused initiatives within the legal industry, developing a practical, execution-oriented approach to strategy. He brings an entrepreneurial mindset to client work—operating with speed, creativity, and discipline—while remaining grounded in actionable insights. His focus is simple: deliver clear, usable intelligence that helps law-firm leaders make confident, forward-looking decisions.
